Editor’s Note

The inaugural issue attached favorable comments from a variety of disciplines, and the 5th issue of Academic Collaborations for Sick Children (ACSC) is now ready for you to read. “Supermicrosurgery and academic collaboration” is specially featured in this issue. In this issue, three original articles are published.

In ACSC, we will publish researches in order to improve children’s health. Furthermore, we hope that we can see the smiling faces of children and their families.
