A study on the cognition of the open space within a south korean residence

Characteristic of outdoor space in densely built-up areas from the view point of “trust to neighbors”

A study of making school facilities with charter school system in usa

Edward management, educational contents and relation to other organization on school’s environment

The actual condition of visitors to shin-senri-higashi-machi michikado-hiroba and the visitors’ consciousness

Architectural development of concept-autopoeisis

A comparative study on building performance evaluation methodology

Study on the assisting system and transfer action with the motion system

Experimental study on the assisting transfer system for the elderly in the home toilet space

Visual recognition of stairs in upward and downward motion

Study on safety for vision-impaired pedestrians in public space

An analysis on elements of spatial composition of squares by indication method

Study on spatial composition of open spaces in nepal

Development of step-by-step ramp to improve evacuation safety of wheelchair users

Fundamental analysis of person-environment relationship through the description of scene with persons

Analysis of the space cognition by the cross-sectional recollection method

Study on the cross-sectional composition of landscape-architecture

About the maximum position and the intensity of anticipation in the space of curved streets

Land formation process through the orchard system in amphawa neighborhood

Transformation of sub-division and current use of apartment building type in hakata district

A study on allocation and location model of regional evacuation facilities

Development of the evacuation simulation system using mesh model and application to inundation

A study on the formation of chicago zoning ordinance and its height and bulk regulations for tall buildings

A methodological study of an open process for a design competition to select an architect with resident’s participation

Analysis of open space in urban area based on space syntax theory

An estimation method of construction byproducts and the optimal location of intermediary disposal facilities in tokyo metropolitan area

Comparative research on the energy consumption of detached house production processes

The comprehension of shinden-zukuri in the 16th and 17th century and it’s transformation factors represented in the images of tale of genji picture series

On the relationship between the theory of architectural evolution and design practices

The design of string-courses at the tokyo station

A research on the architectural works of w.m. varies in korea

A study on the unit of architecture and music in renaissance

Proposal of a discrimination method of composition in chashitsu design

ARCHITECTURAL INSTITUTE OF JAPAN