A study of the relationship between elderly people’s residential environments and adl and qol aiming at nursing prevention

A study on formation of shopping district at the front of station and transformation of living space in the samrangjin of milyang, korea

A study of the norwegian co-operative system ensuring appropriate maintenance of collective housing

The influence of the difference of floor-level between rooms in a house on the sense of privacy and communication

The influence of the floor level difference on the personal territory

Practical research on creating better care environment in old model nursing homes for elderly people

Barriers on circulation in existing buildings and improvement plan

Considerations in spatial design and psychological evaluation of classrooms

Pupils’ aggregate configurations and space utilizations during classes in elementary schools

Cognition of floor plan

Problems in architectural planning and design in terms of anti-inundation measures based on analysis of disaster prevention planning

Analysis of form, elements and evaluation of collective form in harajuku

The relationship of the spatial characteristics, the operational contents, and the concerning residents on the place for community from the operators’ standpoints

A study on the operational foundation and the voluntary residents

A study on the daily arrangement of place

Case studies on housing restoration by the grant of furusato shimeitei foundation

Considerations on transformation of urban model by jose de escamón

Renovation of the residential management system in a district design of postwar

Research on the appropriate way of urban land use control in urbanization control area

Optimal contract mechanism based on alternative payment systems

The supplier’s estimation and problem about the housing performance grade indication system in korea

A consideration on facilities programming for emergency measure bases accepting partial and temporary function drop

Facility cost evaluation of universal design in existing office buildings

About the role of kidomin for fix boundary with nearest town in kyoto

 Lodgings used by inspectors in kamoutou-hans in 1838

The role of kajita megumi’s furniture in okada shinichiro’s architectural interior

The study on nob space of noble residence for entertaining meiji emperor

The site planning of tokyo municipal hospitals constructed as part of the reconstruction program after the great kanto earthquake

Formation process and character of terraced houses in paddington

Research on transition of townscape in central seoul

Study on the urban spatial formation and transformation of amusement quarter “shintenchū” in modern hiroshima

Who is ‘senji mizutani’, a leading opponent to the conservation works of shin-yakushiji temple in the meiji period?

The concept of architectural preservation under the law for the preservation of national treasures

A study on the attractive element of industrial tourism of fishery-related

Study on development and application of micro simulation model for lot usage transition using ca

ARCHITECTURAL INSTITUTE OF JAPAN