Contributors

Masaomi KOBAYASHI is a full-time lecturer at the University of the Ryukyus. Concerned particularly with interdisciplinarity between literature and other fields such as law, economics, and ecology, he has conducted studies of American authors including Henry James, William Faulkner, and Kurt Vonnegut. Among his current interests are literary representations of personhood, cartography, and (post-) Generation X.

YAMAGUCHI Kazuhiko is Assistant Professor at Miyagi University of Education. He studied at Sophia University and Pennsylvania State University. His current research interests include contemporary American literature and comparative literature.

Koichiro YAMAUCHI is Assistant Professor at Shizuoka University. His scholarly work includes articles on Ezra Pound, Robert Duncan, and Michael Palmer. He edited and translated The Particle Rose (2004), a selection of Palmer's poems.

Hikaru FUJII is a doctoral student at Hokkaido University. He is currently working on his dissertation on contemporary American writers including Paul Auster, Stephen Wright, Denis Johnson, and Kate Braverman, among others.