Notes for Foreign Contributors

1 The Journal of the Japanese Society of Grassland Science is issued quarterly with one volume a year, and receives ordinary papers and short communications of original researches pertaining to the field of grassland science and technology. The first author of the contributors is required to hold membership in the Japanese Society of Grassland Science.

2 Manuscripts should be written in Japanese or English and conformed to the general editorial style found in recent issues of the Journal. The maximum length of an ordinary paper, including an abstract in Japanese, is 5 printed pages and that of a short communication is 2 printed pages. If a paper exceed these limits, the author will be charged at cost for the excess pages. Manuscripts should be typed on white bond paper and double spaced throughout, leaving liberal margins of at least 3 cm. Location of figures and tables to be inserted should be indicated on the margin of the text.

3 The original manuscript and two copies should be submitted. In addition, contributors are requested to send by separate post an invoice including (1) title of article, (2) abbreviated title for headings, (3) author's name and institution with a proper address, (4) number of manuscript sheets, (5) number of tables and figures, (6) date of dispatch, (7) desired number of reprints, and (8) address for mailing editorial correspondence.

4 Manuscripts should be arranged: (1) title of article, (2) author's name, (3) synopsis with author's name and title, (4) key words (not more than 6 for an ordinary paper and not more than 3 for a short communication in alphabetical order), (5) text, (6) references in alphabetical order of authors, (7) tables, (8) legends to figures, (9) figures, and (10) abstract with key words written in Japanese. The Editorial Committee is willing to translate an English abstract into Japanese upon request. Number all pages consecutively, including tables and figures, in the upper margin.

5 The text for ordinary papers should be written under the headings of Introduction, Materials and Methods, Results, and Discussion. Short communications should follow the style of ordinary papers, but the headings described above may be omitted. Consult recent issues of Journal of Japanese Society of Grassland Science for further detail of the format.

6 Vertical rules in tables are not permitted. Figures drawn in India ink on white paper are preferable. Figures drawn clearly in pencil on graph paper will also be acceptable, but the author will be charged for the expense of tracing. Each table should be typewritten on a separate page.

7 Letters to be printed in italics, gothics, and SMALL CAPITALS should be indicated by single, wavy, and double underlines, respectively.

8 All measurements should be in the metric system. Use arabic numerals. As to the use of Latin name, consult the International Code of Botanical Nomenclature.

9 Authors are responsible for reading the first galley proof for the correction of typographical errors. No change of the content of the manuscript is permitted on the galley proof. If the editor recognizes the necessity for the change, it will be made at the author's expense.

10 Fifty reprints are supplied free of charge, and further reprints may be purchased.

11 Articles should be submitted to: The Editor, Japanese Society of Grassland Science, c/o National Grassland Research Institute, 768 Senbomatsu, Nishinasuno, Tochigi 329-27, JAPAN.

12 The copyright on any published materials in this journal is owned by the Japanese Society of Grassland Science.