Welcome Message for Conference

Invitation to IBRC 2015

Professor José Leon-Carrión, Ph.D.
Department of Experimental Psychology, University of Seville
IBRA Editorial Board Member and Conference Chair for IBRC 2014 in Seville, Spain

It is my pleasure to invite you to attend the 12th INTERNATIONAL BIOPHILIA REHABILITATION CONFERENCE (IBRC) in Tokyo and Kyoto, Japan, on October 22nd-27th, 2015. The IBRC is a leading international forum for advances in rehabilitation medicine that may lead to functional recovery and reintegration into society. The conference will focus on relevant advances in rehabilitation, designed to treat neuropsychological dysfunctions and disorders resulting from brain injury, particularly in the aging population. The ultimate goal is to help restore patients to their optimal levels of functioning and thereby improve the welfare of an aging society and all those who suffer TBI.

The International Biophilia Rehabilitation Academy (IBRA), this year’s host, is increasingly endorsed each year, with international conferences hosted in Cancun, Mexico and Seville, Spain in 2014. This year, the IBRA, along with its co-host, Prof. Toshiyuki Tanaka of Keio University, would like their Japanese and international colleagues to share their experiences in Japan. The conference will be held in Tokyo and Kyoto, fascinating cities which provide an exotic backdrop for this exchange of ideas, developments and breakthroughs in rehabilitation strategies.

We look forward to welcoming you in Tokyo and Kyoto.
