Japanese historical personage, Ieyasu Tokugawa started the Edo Shogunate which lasted for over 260 years. Moreover, then the essence of his reign was “To make people depend entirely on the Shogunate government not make them know the intelligence. Japanese people have seldom acted to acquire information correctly neither judge by oneself but depended entirely on the government for a long time.

Individual living and dignity were not desired. It looks to have been continuing to the present when looking back upon the pension disturbance which began from not giving information. (The pension disturbance made the regime break in Japan.) The debt of the country with rural areas is over one quadrillion yen.

It is in the state where we cannot depend on the government any longer. The Individual living and dignity are required, and our study would make it possible.
