Author Reply: Severe Hyperkyphosis

Key words: kyphosis, dyspnea

(The Intern Med Advance Publication)

DOI: 10.2169/internalmedicine.1364-18

The Author Replies

Thank you for the insightful letter. As noted in the article, the hypothesis of dyspnea is a distortion of the large airway that leads to obstructive respiratory dysfunction. A further evaluation will be needed to clarify the relationship between dyspnea and ventilatory dysfunction specifically associated with lumbar kyphosis.

The author states that he has no Conflict of Interest (COI).

Taro Shimizu