1. Purpose and Scope

Journal of International Society of Life Information Science (Journal of ISLIS) is an academic journal of International Society of Life Information Science (ISLIS). The Journal of ISLIS publishes the fruits of scientific researches (e.g. original research papers, review articles) in which consciousness, the spirit or the mind, etc. figure.

Targeted main research fields

Functions of living bodies, Emission from living bodies, Brain, physiology, Mental activity of all kinds, Oriental medicine, Traditional medicine, Qigong and qi, Latent talents, Extrasensory perception, Psychophysical phenomena, Anomalous somatic functions, etc.

2. Copyright

The copyrights of all articles published in the Journal of ISLIS belong to the International Society of Life Information Science. Therefore, anyone who wishes to reprint, quote from, or translate articles must obtain the permission of the Society.

3. Type of manuscript

Manuscripts are classified into four types as follows.

1. Original Research Paper: To be considered for publication, these manuscripts should report original contributions to scientific research results. They are considered for adequateness of content and form as scientific research.

2. Review Article: To be considered for publication, these manuscripts should review some theme of scientific research within the scope of the Society's interest.

3. Letter to the Editor: These are opinions expressed to readers of this journal. The Editors may edit letter length, form, etc. if necessary.

4. Others: Other articles which the Editors judge to be valuable to the readers.

4. Layout of manuscript

Manuscripts should be written in English or in English and Japanese. They are acceptable without a Japanese version. The Japanese version should be horizontally written. Chinese authors should submit manuscripts in English or in English and Japanese plus a supplementary Chinese version to the Editor. This Chinese version may be published if necessary, although the English or English / Japanese version will appear.

Manuscripts should be typed on 8 1/2 x 11 inches (international letter size) or A4 (ISO paper size, 210 mm x 297 mm) paper. English manuscripts must be checked by an adult native English speaker.

1. Original Research Papers and Review Articles consist of the title, author name(s), affiliation(s), the abstract, keywords, the text, figure(s), table(s) and their legend(s).

2. The abstract summarizes the purpose, the method and the results including the point that the author wishes to emphasize. The English abstract should be 100-200 words. The Japanese abstract should be 200-400 characters.

3. Keywords are listed for 5 up to about 10 words.

4. It is preferable that the text is divided into the following: Introduction, theory, experiment, results, discussion and conclusion. Unnecessary sections can be omitted among these.

5. The day on which the manuscript is received is that on which it reaches the Editors. The day on which the manuscript is accepted is that on which it is decided by the Editors.

6. Three copies of the manuscript must be submitted for plural peer review. Clear photocopies are acceptable for the text, figures and tables. Only for photographs, three original prints are acceptable. The contact author should keep a copy because the submitted manuscript is not returned as a rule.
7. Examining the manuscript and re-submitting

Based on peer review, the Editors decide to accept or reject the manuscript and also set the publishing order. Original Research Papers that are accepted by at least two professional reviewers are published. The content of the manuscript is assumed to be the author's responsibility. Any manuscript for which correction is requested should be submitted again as promptly as possible. If the corrected manuscript is not returned to the Editors within six months from the day it was sent to the contact author, the Editors may dispose of it without publication.

8. The final revised manuscript should be submitted in camera ready style. (See Information for Authors and Sample Manuscript)

9. The address for submission of manuscripts is:
