NIHON IGAKU TETSUGAKU RINRI GAKKAI
Annals of the Japanese Association for Philosophical and Ethical Researches in Medicine
2005 No.23

Contents

[Articles]
1. Informed Consent as the Process for "Sharing Reasons":
   On the Medical Professional-Patient Relationship in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases
   .................................................................................................................. ENZO Aya 1
2. Informed Consent and Consensus Building in Health Care
   .......................................................... HAMAMACHI Kumiko 11
3. Information Technology in Medicine and the Protection of Personal Information:
   Meaning, Significance, and Problem
   .......................................................... KATSUYAMA Kimiko 23
4. Self-actualization and Caring: A Study on the Meaning of Caring
   .......................................................... HORII Yasuaki 35
5. Problems of Conscience and Responsibility in Nursing Care
   .......................................................... ASAKURA Kouichi 43
6. Constructing Meaning in the "Narrative" of a Depressed Patient:
   Approaches to Social Constructivism from A. Schutz’ Theory of Relevance
   .................................................................................................................. YAMANAKA Eriko 55
   ..................................................................................................... GOTO Yuta 65
8. In Search of "Wisdom of Illness": Beyond Medical Professionalism
   .......................................................... ANDO Yasunori 77
9. Issues of the "Potentiality" of Personhood
   .......................................................... MAEDA Yoshiro 87
10. A Philosophical Analysis of Sexual Perversion
    .......................................................... SATOH Takuji 97
11. Rethinking the "Specific Etiology" of Disease
    .......................................................... MURAOKA Kiyoshi 107
12. Hisayuki Omodaka’s Philosophy of Medicine and Modern Medicine
    ......................................................... SUGIOKA Yoshihiko 115

[Research Report]
13. Societal Aspects of Organ Donation in Japan:
    Increasing Organ Transplants from Living Donors and Advancing Understanding of Organ Donation
    ........................................................................................................... IMAI Tatsuya 125

[Workshops]
14. Cultivating the Concept of Care
    .......................................................... ASAKURA Kouichi 131
15. The Present State of Ethical Education in Medical and Dental Schools:
    For the Structuring of a Core Curriculum
    .......................................................... KATAGI Noriaki 135

[Symposium]
◆ Issues in Reproductive Health and Rights—Focused on Abortion Problems
16. The Whereabouts of the Arguing about the Termination of Pregnancy
    .......................................................... MARUMOTO Yuriko 139
17. A Change in Social Eyes to Women who had Abortion
    .......................................................... SAITO Yukiko 145
18. On Undecidable Decision
    .......................................................... TATEIWA Shin’ya 151
19. The Morality of Abortion: Moral Status and Dignity of Fetus
    .......................................................... NARA Masatoshi 157
20. Summary of the Symposium
    .......................................................... KOMATSU Namiko and OKINAGA Takako 163

[Miscellaneous]
◆ Program of the 23rd Congress
    .................................................................................................. 165
◆ In memory of Professor YAMAMOTO Zenjirou
    .................................................................................................. 168