Contents

Foreword
Takeshi YORO : The scope of ethics ........................................ 3

Articles of Invitation
Shinichiro MORINAGA : In dubio pro embryone ........................................ 4
Etsuko AKIBA : Dignity of the human embryo ........................................ 12
Nobuo KURATA : Human embryo and dignity of human being .................... 20
Sayumi NOJIMA : The responsibility of nursing researcher in research ethics ........ 28
Hisao KATOH : Lack of organ and bioethics ........................................ 36

Special Lecture — The 14th Annual Meeting (2002)
Senjun TAIRA : Ethics problems on the research activity ........................................ 44

Mutuo HIRO : Reconsideration to the modern rationalistic thought .................... 53
Fumio MATUI : What is human dignity? A double function of differentiation and leveling ........................................ 58
Yasuko SHIRAI : Bioethics for Genomic Research Era: Serious concern for overwhelming discrepancy between medical research ethics and medical care ethics ........................................ 63
Katunori KAI : Protection of human subjects as the starting point of bioethics and medical law and “Human dignity”. ........................................ 70
Koji NANNBA : Is human cloning a blasphemy against the dignity of man? ........ 75

Articles
Atsushi ASAI, Motoki OHNISHI : Ethical decision-making and virtues in health care ........................................ 81
Takashi YAMAMOTO : “Reconstruction of environmental ethics centered on Hans Jonas’s theory” ........................................ 89
Chieko KURIHARA : The “Note of Clarification” on the Declaration of Helsinki and Japanese guidelines for clinical research ........................................ 97

Reports
Rie HOSOKAWA, Hirohisa IMAI, Kiyoshi MURAOKA, Hiroyuki NAKAO, Hiromasa TSUKINO, Takahiko KATOH : Comparison of ordinary people, medical doctors and medical students on ethical awareness and value judgments regarding genetic medicine ........................................ 105
Miho MATSUI, Masaki INOUE : Elderly inpatient preference to terminal care ........................................ 113
Kaoruko AITA : Brain death is a social construct ........................................ 122
Mayumi MAYEDA, Kiyohide FUSHIMI, Kouzou TAKASE, Yujiro TANAKA : Awareness of clinical ethics among resident physicians ........................................ 130

Research Notes
Yoshitsugu WATANABE : A certain Buddhist’s stand toward brain death and organ transplants ................................. 140
Mari TSURUWAKA, Masahito OKAYASU : The “Life Worth Living” (Ikigai) of the elderly of Japan in perspectives of the narratives ........................................ 150
Yuko NAGAMIZU : Medical neglect cases in the United States ................................. 158
—Analysis of three state supreme court cases concerning HIV-positive children and children with pediatric cancer ........................................ 158
Shiho HIRATSUKA : Development of the genetic medicine and a change in the concept of disease and treatment ........................................ 167
Toshiaki HAGA : Informed consent in dental consultations ........................................ 175
Hiroko OOSIYA : Existence of the diversified type of “Mothers” led by the diffusion of assisted reproductive technology (ART) ........................................ 181
Yukari SENBA : Countermeasures to the falling birthrate and insurance coverage for infertility treatments: from the perspective of bioethics ........................................ 190
Mayu MIYAZAKI : Consideration of the concept of informed consent ........................................ 198

Program of the 14th Annual Meeting ........................................ 205