Contents

◆ Satoru Shimamune: Editorial ................................................................. 2

Memorial:
◆ Hiroshi Imada: Memories of My Respected Friend, Masaya Sato ......................... 4
◆ Masako Jitsumori: At the Mercy of Contingencies ......................................... 6
   Analyzes His Own Culture” Suggests to Us ........................................... 9
◆ Sadahiko Nakajima: Lever-Pressing Fish in a Laboratory: Reinforcement Works! ...... 13
◆ Yoshinori Hasegawa: I Accepted His Invitation to Behavior Analysis .................. 28
◆ Mami Mitachi: Led by “Contingency is En” : Our Mission as Behavior Analysts
   ............................................................................................................. 31

◆ Tetsumi Moriyama: An Intellectual Giant Who Emphasized the Importance of the Role of Contingencies of Reinforcement .................................................. 33
◆ Kenji Okuda: A Base for Increasing Communication Between Cognitive Scientists and Behavior Analysts ........................................................................... 36
◆ Jun-ichi Yamamoto: Investigation of Verbal Behavior: Behavior Analysis as a
   Science of Scientific Behavior ................................................................... 40
◆ Masahiko Inoue: Development of Human Behavior Analysis: Theoretical Behavior
   Analysis of Verbal Behavior and Its Application to Clinical Settings .............. 46
◆ Masashi Ida: In Memory of Super-Shaper Sato Sensei ..................................... 51
◆ Tatsuya Sato and Yoshiyuki Watanabe: Masaya Sato’s Contingency Theory and
   His Radical Aphorism .............................................................................. 55
◆ Richard W. Malott: Masaya Sato (1932-2010) .............................................. 59

Short Reports:
◆ Masaki Saito: Effects of Goal Setting and Performance Feedback on Time
   Allocation: A Management Strategy for Time Management ....................... 62

Reply:
◆ Takayuki Tanno and Takayuki Sakagami: Implications of the Molecular-Molar Controversy for Behavior Analysis: Reply to Hiraoka’s (2011) Comments
   ............................................................................................................. 71