The Current Role of the Supracricoid Partial Laryngectomies in the Management of Endolaryngeal Cancer

Ollivier Laccourreye

In this one hour keynote lecture the speaker will review the historical aspects of the supracricoid partial laryngectomies namely the cricohyoidoepiglottopexy (CHEP) and cricohyodopexy (CHP) procedure together with the technical refinements that allow for a successful functional outcome. The indications, contraindications and oncological results published in the medical literature as well as the experience gained at the author institution over the past thirty years will be presented and discussed. Emphasis, using numerous videos, will be placed upon the selection criteria, technical perioperative maneuvers and postoperative management that allow for a successful outcome in terms of swallowing, respiration and phonation.
