CONTENTS

Foreword ......................................................................................................................... Masahiro Ide........................................321

Review article
Discovery of Novel Hypothalamic Peptides Related to Stress .......................... Yoichi Ueta, et al........................................323

Panel Discussion/Eating Disorders: Treatment Environment and its Effectiveness
Inpatient Therapy for Anorexia Nervosa in the Department of Psychosomatic Medicine, Kyushu University ........................................................................................................ Masato Takii, et al........................................333
Inpatient Treatment for Eating Disorders ................................................................. Toshihiko Nagata, et al........................................341
Outcome Study of Patients with Eating Disorders One year after Inpatient Treating in the Eating Disorders Education Program (EDEP) ................................................. Kenji Suzuki, et al........................................351

Reference Paper
Preliminary Study for the Development of the Structural Psychological Support Group for Nurses
........................................................................................................................................ Kei Hirai, et al........................................359

Case Report
Two Patients with Advanced Cancer whose Psychiatric Symptoms were Improved by Palliative Care Team ................................................................................................. Yoshiro Maebayashi, et al........................................367