Journal of the Japanese Society of Pediatric Surgeons
Volume 39, Number 7, December 2003.

CONTENTS

Complications Following Posterior Sagittal Approach-PSARP..................A. M. Holschneider (903)
A New Method of Fetal Tracheal Occlusion Using a Detachable
Balloon and Fetal Laryngoscope ..............................................Mio Tanaka, et al. (909)
Evaluation of 201TlCl Per Rectum Scintigraphy in Biliary
Atresia..........................................................Takashi Azuma, et al. (917)
Laryngotracheal Separation for Pediatric Neurological Impaired
Patients With Intractable Aspiration .....................................Naobumi Endo, et al. (923)
Laparoscopic vs. Conventional Surgery for Meckel’s Diverticulum in Children ........................................................Masaki Nio, et al. (929)
The Identity of Pediatric Surgery Among the General Public ....Shinichi Shimadera, et al. (934)
Atypical Malrotation in Neonates: A Report on Two Cases ..........Norihisa Uemura, et al. (940)
Extraordinary Deterioration of Hepatic Function After Rotavirus
Gastroenteritis in a Girl With Postoperative Biliary Atresia ..........Takashi Akiyama (945)
A Case Report of Multiple Intestinal Atresia ............................Yuka Kurihara, et al. (949)
An Abdominal Wall Abscess Caused by Omphalitis:
A Case Report .........................................................Chieko Hisamatsu, et al. (955)
A Case of Colon Duplication Treated by Transanal Septal
Diversion .................................................................Yasuho Nakahara, et al. (960)
Torsion of the Gallbladder in a School-aged Boy ....................Takeshi Hirabayashi, et al. (965)
A Case of Huge Mesenteric Lymphangioma Managed by Laparoscopy-assisted Subtotal Resection With Sclerosing Therapy .....................................................Katsuji Tokuhara, et al. (970)
A Case of Partial Splenectomy for Epidermoid Cyst in a Child ..........Takehito Oshio, et al. (976)
Laparoscopic Repair of Bilateral Morgagni Hernia With Resection of the Hernia Sac in a Child With Down’s Syndrome .............Miyuki Kohno, et al. (981) Benefits of the VEID (Vein Entry Indicator Device) in the Field of Pediatric Surgery ..................................................Yumi Inoue, et al. (988)