Current Topics: Organ Diseases and Autonomic Nervous System

Autonomic Nervous System and Its Relations to Diseases ........................................ Seiki Konishi ........ 368
Autonomic Dysfunction in Spinal Cord Injury ............................................................ Takehiko Yukishita, et al. ........ 370
Autonomic Nerve Dysfunction in Ocular Diseases ...................................................... Akira Murakami ........ 377
Sexual Interest and Neuroimaging of the Site of the Libido ....................................... Akira Tsujimura ........ 381
Points of Intersection Between Mental Disorder and the Autonomic Nervous System, and Their Characteristics ................................................................. Mayuko Fukuta, et al. ........ 386

Original Articles

High Risk of Muscle Strain in the Rectus Femoris Muscle: Anatomical and Physiological Analysis ................................................................. Toshimasa Kumazaki, et al. ........ 392
The Usefulness of Measuring Anti-Xa Activity for the Prediction of Bleeding Adverse Events During Postsurgical Fondaparinux Anticoagulant Therapy ................................................ Koichiro Niwa, et al. ........ 399

Communications

Nursing Education in Korea – a Comparison with Nursing Education in Japan and the United States – ................................................................. Keiko Inatomi, et al. ........ 406

Publication List

Publications from Juntendo University Graduate School of Medicine, 2014 [3/6] ......................................................... 412

Instructions to Authors ........................................................................................................ 433

Editor's Note .......................................................................................................................... 438

The Juntendo Medical Society

From the illustrator: Having begun to long for southern islands with the advent of summer as always, I visited Ishigaki Island this year. On a miraculously sunny day during the typhoon season, I could see the sun set beautifully into the tropical ocean (Akiko Miyamichi).