The Japanese Journal of Health and Medical Sociology

Vol. 19 No. 2 2008

Urban Elderly Health and Health Promotion .................................. Tanji HOSHI ..... 1

Main Symposium
Community Empowerment through Group Activities related to
Urban Area Health Promotion Activities ................................... Hiroko NARUKI ..... 8
Empowerment and Public Responsibility of Community Based Organization Activities
.......................................................... Sachiko OKI ..... 21

Recent Health Care Reform and Options for Financing in Japan
........................................................................................................... Ryu NIKI ..... 33

The Implications and Challenges of Sense of Coherence (SOC) as Stress Coping Ability for Health and Medical Sociology
.............................................................................................. Yoshihiko YAMAZAKI ..... 43

Original Article
Conversational Structure at Nursing Care Home for Elderly: Conversation
Analysis of Self and Other in Daily Life Care ............................ Naonori AKIYA ..... 56
Medical Technology and Doctor/Patient Interaction: Ultrasonic Diagnosis in OB/GYN
........................................................................................................... Chiaki SHIRAI ..... 68

Research Note
Assessment of Factors Associated with the Sense of Coherence (SOC) of Medical Students on Entering School
.......................................................... Mitsuyo KISHIMOTO Hitoshi OKAMURA ..... 82
Career Selection of Female Physicians:
The Comparison of Hospital/Clinic Selection between Male and Female Physicians
............................................................................................... Akira KAWAMURA ..... 94

Book Review
........................................................................................................... Taro ANDO ..... 105
........................................................................................................... Junichi SATO ..... 107

The Japanese Society of Health and Medical Sociology