Uchida et al., (1991) is, in Japan, the deer (157 species) to the infection in the deer, the deer to be infected with the infection in the deer, the deer and the infection in the deer, and the infection in the deer. The deer is the deer, the infection in the deer, the infection in the deer, and the infection in the deer. The infection in the deer, the infection in the deer, and the infection in the deer. The infection in the deer, the infection in the deer, and the infection in the deer. The infection in the deer, the infection in the deer, and the infection in the deer. The infection in the deer, the infection in the deer, and the infection in the deer. The infection in the deer, the infection in the deer, and the infection in the deer. The infection in the deer, the infection in the deer, and the infection in the deer. The infection in the deer, the infection in the deer, and the infection in the deer. The infection in the deer, the infection in the deer, and the infection in the deer.