Congratulation on JSPP 20's Year Anniversary

Xi Xu

I am very glad to learn that in 2008 Japan Society of Polymer Processing will accomplish 20's year anniversary. In the polymer engineering area, polymer processing is considered as the crux of the properties of the end product and attaches importance much more than ever in recent times. JSPP has enrolled about 2000 individual members and 200 supporting companies up to now. In the fields of polymer processing the remarkable contributions of Japan are well-known over the world, have had great support from eminent JSPP.

Science and technology are a kind of wealth created in common by all mankind. Let's join hands to make our contribution to further development of polymer science, to explore the boundless universe in quest of the never-ending truth of sciences.

Xi Xu

Academician of Academy of Sciences
Prof. & Director, Polymer Research Institute of Sichuan University and Polymer Materials
Research Institute of Shanghai Jiao Tong
University, China